COOKIE POLICY

What are Cookies?

Cookies are tiny text files stored on your computer when you visit certain web pages.

To find out more, please check, what are cookies (opens in a new window; please note that we can't be responsible for the content of external websites).

If you don't wish to enable cookies on your computer, that will mean that your experience of using our website site will be impaired - as some of the cookies help us to identify and resolve errors for example, or determine relevant related products to show you when you're browsing. Most web browsers have cookies enabled, but see the Managing cookies section for help to turn them on should you need to.

Do not track

Do not track (DNT) is a feature offered by some browsers, with some newer browsers offering it as default. If you enable it, it sends a signal to websites to request that your browsing isn't tracked, for example by third party ad or social networks, or analytic companies.

You can opt out of tracking and analytics on this website by changing your settings - see the Managing Cookies section on this page.

At present no industry-wide uniform standard has been agreed and adopted to determine how DNT requests should be managed, so our website doesn't currently respond to DNT requests. Until that standard is established, we'll continue to review DNT and other new technologies, but won't respond to DNT requests.

We're giving you this information as part of our initiative to both comply with legislation, and make sure we're honest and clear about your privacy when using our website. We know you'd expect nothing less from us, and please be assured that we're working on a number of other privacy and cookie-related improvements to the website.

Use of Cookies

We use Google Analytics software on this site to anonymously track how visitors interact with this website. This includes identifying:

- the pages visited on this site
- how long the visitor spends on each page on this site
- how visitors got to the site
- what visitors click on while visiting the site

We do this to help make sure the site is meeting the needs of visitors and help us make improvements, for instance improving site search.

Consent to Use Cookies

You give us consent to using cookies for analytic purposes if you continue to use this site. Alternatively, you can switch off cookies in your browser and the site will still work normally.
